Dear Harold,
You are a tough old goat, but I have always known that. I am very proud of you.
I would be pleased to provide you with some working capital to self publish. I would be repaid only ~~[redacted]~~ from sale of the book so that the money advanced would not be a loan. After expenses are returned we can share profit equally. How much is needed? What do you think?
Jill is fine. So are the boys. Jon is a junior at Princeton — David a freshman at Oberlin. They are fine young men. 21 & 19. Hard to believe.
I have built a successful book producing & publishing investment operation

WE create paperbacks & have them distributed thru Pocket, Dell & Pinnacle. Sales have been very active in recent months for publishers through top sellers.

Hope your health continues to improve.

It was good to hear from you

Love.

Del.
